How a sister played a trick that brought rosy health to a coffee flend is an interesting tale: "I was a coffee fiend-a trembling.

nervous, physical wreck, yet clinging to the poison that stole away my strength. I mocked at Postum and would have none of it.

"One day my sister substituted a cup of piping hot Postum for my morning cup of coffee but did not tell me what it was. I noticed the richness of it and remarked that the 'coffee' tasted fine but my sister did not tell me I was drinking Postum for fear I might not take any more.

"She kept the secret and kept giving me Postum instead of coffee until I grew stronger, more tireless, got a better color in my sallow cheeks and a clearness to my eyes, then she told me of the health-giving, nervestrengthening life-saver she had given me in place of my morning coffee.

"From that time I became a disciple of Postum and no words can do justice in telling the good this cereal drink did me. I will not try to tell it, for only after having used it can one be convinced of its merits."

DELLA CHIESA CHOSEN PONTIFF OF CATHOLIC CHURCH ON NINTH BALLOT.

Takes the Name of Benedict XV. and Is Strictly Modern in Thought, Though Firmly Opposed to Tango and Frivolities.

Rome, Italy. - Cardinal Giacomo Della Chiesa, archbishop of Bologna, Italy, was elected pope, to succeed the late Pius X. The newly elected pontiff at once assumed the title of Benedict XV. He is 60 years old, and is a native of Genoa, the city in which Christopher Columbus was born. Cardinal Della Chiesa was one of the newest members of the sacred college, having been created a cardinal by Pope Pius May 30, last. Nine other cardinals were created at the May consistory, which was the last held by Plus X.

In taking the name of Benedict the new pope assumes a title which is historic in the church of Rome, but which has not been worn by any pontiff in more than a century and a half. Benedict XIV., who was a native of Bologna, died in 1758.

Not Considered Candidate.

The name Chiesa (pronounced Keeay-za, accent second syllable) is Italian for "church." Jacobus Della Chiesa, translated into English, would become Jacob (or James) of the church, Cardinal Della Chiesa was not considered a leading candidate for the office of pope at the time when the papal conclave met. He was regarded as a supporter of the "party of the left." which was said to have modern tendencies, and whose candidate was Cardinal Maffi. Maffi is said to have been in the lead on the first ballot. Why Maffi could not be elected, and why Della Chiesa became acceptable to the majority, in spite of his newness in the sacred college, is expected to develop soon. Cardinal Della Chiesa was born Nov. 21, 1854, and was ordained a priest Dec. 21, 1878. He served as secretary of the nunciature, in Spain from 1883 to 1887, in which year he was appointed secretary to the late Cardinal Rampolla.

Condemns the Tango

He was appointed substitute secretary of state in 1901, and in 1907 he was elected to the post of advisor to the holy office. In 1907 he was appointed papal nuncio of Madrid, in succession to Mgr. Rianaldini, but this appointment was canceled three days later. This incident occurred just betore he was made archbishop of Bologna. When Mgr. Della Chiesa was appointed to this post it was declared in Rome that it was mainly with the oblect of combating modern religious ideas. Bologna being the headquarters of the National Democratic league whose members advocated what is known as "modernism" in religion. In January, 1914, while still at Bologna, the present pope issued a pastoral letter strongly condemning the ango and other frivolities.

The name Chiesa (pronounced Keeay-za, accent second syllable), is Italian for "Church." Giacomo Della Chiesa, translated into English, would become James of the Church.

FARM

FEED PIGS DURING SUMMER

Growing and Mature Animals Can Use

derable Rough Feed and Forage to Advantage. (By W. M. KELLY.) On account of having a comparatively small stomach, the pig is an animal especially adapted to the consuming of concentrated foods. The growing pig and the mature breeding animal can use considerable rough feed and forage to advantage. For the best results, the growing pig must not be confined to forage crops and roughage alone; and the fattening hog, although it can use a little bulky and succulent food, should be fed largely upon concen-

The legumes, alfalfa, rape, rye, sorghum, millet, are carbonaceous feeds. Bluegrass contains less protein than the former, but more than the latter crops, consequently, if we are feeding pigs on pasture, we must plan to feed protein feeds if they have carbonaceous forage and pasture, and carbonaceous feeds if they have protelnaceous pasture and forage crops. Pigs that have the run of alfalfa and clover make the best gains if fed a little corn and some of the nitrogenous feeds like oil-meal, skim-milk, or wheat middlings. However, it is usually more profitable to depend upon the clover and alfalfa pasture and not feed the more expensive feeds. If we have our pigs well-developed on forage and protein feeds they will be in condition to finish on corn alone W. M. K. the last two months.

BREED HORSES FOR PROFIT

bred sires of a particular breed, the use of sound mares, the feeding and care of the mare and foal and the working of the stallions regularly. Doctor Alexander of the Wisconsin experiment station further urges the home production of pure-bred stallions to replace the grades, mongrels and scrubs too often used at present. He urges that grade horses replace scrubs in farm teams. The organization of community associations will greatly facilitate the promotion of horse-breeding and the encouragement of the industry may be furthered by prizes at county fairs for pure-bred stallions, mares and colts.

Change From Grass to Alfalfa, Corn, Barley, Engliage, Etc., Must Be Made Gradually.

A small percentage of loss in lambs in the feed lot is to be expected, but this loss in some instances is far greater than it should be. When range lambs are placed on a fattening ration the change of feed is so sudden that dietic disturbances cause a general disorder and several dead sheep are found in the pens each morning. This invariably leads to the suspicion that they are dying of some infectious disease. In some cases the ration is not well balanced to secure the best gains and the conditions of care and handling might be better, but these things will account for only a nominal loss.

The change from grass to alfalfa, corn, barley, molasses and straw, ensilage, etc., must be made gradually and herein lies the secret of the heavy losses of lambs in the feed lots in the early fall. The desire to get the lambs on a fattening ration as early as possible and failing to appreciate the danger of too heavy feeding and change of ration has helped to make lamb feeding an unprofitable business in some instances. A sudden change of feed or overfeeding must be guard ed against in the domestic animals: especially is this true with the horse and sheep.
